Annies donates to North Canterbury

Annies, a subsidiary of Kono NZ, have donated a pallet of 1512 boxes of Annies Apples Rings to the people of North Canterbury.

The Blenheim based factory was affected by the quakes, needing to close for two days whilst damage was being assessed. "Now that we're all up and running again, we're delighted to be able to help the people of Canterbury, and our thoughts are with them at this unsettling time." Mel Chambers, GM Foods, Kono NZ.

The Annies Rings were delivered to the Salvation Army in Blenheim who are working with Civil Defence to distribute to those in need in the North Canterbury region. Salvation Army are taking donations of non-perishable items if you wish to help.
